

GOLD COAST MALIBU CLUB

Newsletter 07
July 2009

Next Club Round: Try again this week!!
The next club round will be on Sunday the 19th July. We will be meeting at a NEW LOCATION GREENMOUNT CARPARK at 7:00 am.

NEWS TO DATE:

Yet again one of you monkey's must have upset the gods last month, because the surf was absolutely dreadful and the weather wasn't much better. It was cold, overcast with some scud showers and the wind was howling. The surf on the other hand was, well, there was no other hand it had a little bit of size about it and the sweep that comes with it but there really wasn't a wave to be had. So we all stood around speaking rubbish and telling jokes or lies depending what the topic was at the time.

The old maler's in the club, which are all pretty much member's of the Tweed Coast Old Mal Club were away recently for the gathering of the Lost Tribes at somewhere which is not like the Goldie. I got to say I love this weekend away, good people, good waves, uncrowded waves, old mals and a lot of big smiles all round. There were two highlights for me this year. One would have to be playing ipod dj, you know, sitting around having 1 or 2 be vies with some good music on the boom box with Wal proclaiming that this song is the best song ever, no wait this song is the best song ever, no wait this song defiantly this song is the best song ever whilst he lovingly caresses a guitar that was horribly out of tune and mercifully could not be played. The other highlight being, going surfing all day, yes I know, heats what the heats but the water was refreshing and the waves fun so why not! As for old maler's being hard drinking, hard surfing party animals well let me just say that even party animals need there beauty sleep especially on a Saturday night on a weekend away, hey 9:00pm is late!

A couple of astute members noticed that I still had the old meeting location on the Advertisement it nice to know people actually read this little newsletter. We had a pretty good response from the prototype ad so this time I have changed the meeting point and the time so, this time people lets see it out there, drop it off at your local surf shop, café, lunch room, just put it anywhere you think someone might see it. It pays to advertise.....

My wife, Therese and I have some wonderful news to share with you all. Yes folks it has happened again we are expecting another little one, late October early November. So if any one knows what may be causing this, please let me know. Although, I do have my suspicions of the postie, you watch we have moved house I bet there will be no more babies.

The Last Word:

Thank you again to the regulars that turn up month in month out in the hope we might have a round or a fun day out in the water. So we will try again this weekend for a club round or a social catch up and surf. Can't wait look forward to seeing you all there.

The Super 8's Scribe Dean ☺

REMEMBER:
GREENMOUNT CARPARK OPPOSITE MACCA'S
TELL EVERYONE